

Earth Rays

The terms "Earth Radiation," "Earth Rays," and "E-Rays," most commonly refer to harmful electrically charged rays emanating from the ground. EARTH RAYS create GEOPATHIC STRESS ZONES and are only harmful when we are exposed to them for an extended amount of time. They show in the TORSION FIELDS (Information Field) with their negative influence.

Places we stay for a long time are typically our bed, living room couch, office chair, in school and hospitals etc. Now if these locations are exposed to EARTH RAYS the bodies / health will be effected without any doubt.

EARTH RAYS can affect the energy balance of our bodies positively. When we take a walk in nature, for example, we feel refreshed, less stressed, and more mentally acute. This is, in part, because we cross a wide range of earth radiation lines and our bodies take advantage of these changing impulses and we are not exposed to an extended amount of time to a particular ray.

Earth Radiation and Geopathic Stress

To date, EARTH RADIATION and the GEOPATHIC STRESS ZONES it creates on the human body have sparked controversy among scientists and researchers as scientific measurable methods have not been fully developed. Some dismiss these concepts entirely.

But others have long understood that energetic forces exist on earth which affect our health, our energy level and maybe as well our mental stability both positively and negatively. These forces can be detected with dowsing rods, compass needles and Kinesiology. The company PROTECT PRO has developed a measuring tool to discover and to support findings and PROTECT PRO has developed products to solve the problems.

See paragraph TORSION FIELD as above.

In this context it is interesting that most Building Biologists, who otherwise think and act according to strict scientific principles, acknowledge the existence of GEOPATHIC STRESS ZONES created by WATER VEINS. They consider these phenomena self-evident and include their locations in analyses of indoor living environments. Additionally, they work on information about how to protect one self from them.

The term GEOPATHIC STRESS is commonly used in connection with WATER VEINS because it is difficult to differentiate between which veins are and aren't pathogenic.

Experts argue that the electrical energy of WATER VEINS comes from the friction of subterranean currents and rock. For more information on how water veins work see the WATER VEIN paragraph further below.

In addition to WATER VEINS, experts have identified other factors which contribute to GEOPATHIC STRESS and which, together, form a global grid or series of grids.

There is the well known CURRY GRID, described by the Germans Dr. Manfred Curry and Dr. Wittmann (1952). See further below.

Another grid known in the world of science is the HARTMANN GRID discovered by the German Dr. Ernst Hartmann (1954). See further below.

The BENKER GRID as discovered by the Austrian Anton Benker seems to be the least known of all. See further below.